BIO

THE STORY

Kevin started THREAD in 2009, without a business card or a website, 'just' a belief and a customer who saw him speak and asked him to come and work with his management team. Thereafter, word-of-mouth recommendations led to one opportunity after the next. In 2012, Kevin began expanding the company, adding members to his team, launching THREADsports (2012) and OpenTHREAD (2013.)

--Born in South Bend, Indiana, Kevin is the son of two University professors, a Canadian father and American mother. He moved to Ontario at age 5 and later graduated from Wilfrid Laurier University (WLU) with an honours degree in Business Administration and a minor in philosophy/ethics. At WLU, Ryan was captain of the basketball team for three seasons and graduated with Student of the Year honours.

His career in business began in Toronto within consumer package goods, working within Brand Management for Unilever Canada. In 2001 Ryan moved to Sweden and became General Manager for the basketball club, 08 Stockholm Human Rights (competes in Sweden's top league.) where he spent 8 years leading the club before starting THREAD.

FIBA BASEKTBALL AGENT

In 2010 Kevin was certified as a FIBA basketball agent. He represents basketball players in negotiations and works to manage their careers. Traditionally, the agent business is known as a tough, volume-based and somewhat unethical industry. Kevin is working to change that by working with a small group of players and clubs who value a new way of doing business in an industry that needs change.
